

GET TO KNOW JULIE

At JULIE, we're dedicated to keeping homeowners like you safe. We neither own nor mark underground lines, however we alert our member utility companies so they can mark your property. State law requires the person actually digging contact JULIE at least two business days before starting any excavation—even if digging in the same location as a previous project. You'll be given a "dig number" and you must begin your project within 14 calendar days from the time you receive it. But NEVER start digging until verifying that all member utility companies have marked the location of their underground lines or notified you that they have no buried lines in the area. Our member utilities are only required to mark the lines that they own, not privately installed or owned lines.

Know What's Below

Nationwide, an underground utility line is damaged every few minutes. JULIE helps prevent these damages by being Illinois' FREE notification service to contact for safer digging. If you're planting, building, adding, or fixing anything outdoors, always know where lines on your property are located or you could cause an interruption to services...or worse!

Always contact JULIE before you dig.
